

"Today, I speak to you strangers who have been organising Charity Week here across the UK for the past year and having just come off a conference call with the team in Toronto. On the way I texted our team in Scotland and Sydney and Northern Ireland. Half of these places I have not been to in yet. today there are more than 100 institutions in more than 3 continents that take part in Charity Week."

Charity Week has special attributes of Charity Week. Watching the promise of the almighty unfold before our eyes. 10 years of inspiring muslims to work together. 10 years of helping tens of thousands of orphans and needy children. 10 years of inspiring muslim youth. 10 years of not imagine, we're counting on you. Charity week was a success. As usual, meeting late. As usual, available chair in the Charity Week

From this simple idea was born Charity Week- one week each year in which Muslim youth, united upon Islam, work together to raise funds for orphans and needy Children across the world. In the past 11 years Charity Week has set up projects in dozens of countries, involved hundreds of institutions, motivated thousands of students, acted as dawah to thousands of non-muslims and raised over £5.3 million. However, far more important than the money raised, Charity Week has planted the importance of the unity of muslim youth in the minds of muslim youth. It has shown that the poor, like any other muslim, can help the poor. Charity Week is a step towards unity. It is the key to the success of Charity Week for orphans.

We'd like to tell you a story

Welcome to the CW2015 Annual Report

Assalaamu alaikum,

Every year, we select a theme for Charity Week that allows us to keep things fresh whilst still adhering to our core vision. This year we chose “books” as our theme and as the months went by, we realised more and more why that was an excellent choice.

Books play a central part in our lives. They provide information that we use in our studies. They hold stories that are passed down from one generation to the next. Books define cultures and civilisations. Holy books are central to most world faiths.

The report that you have before you is the book of Charity Week 2015. It shows the highs and lows during a year of great contrasts. It has exciting new chapters titled USA and Germany, but also more challenging ones highlighting areas that we need to improve on.

However, more important than all the details, the stories and the stats is the realisation that this project is slowly and surely moving us all towards the vision of unity. We pray that it will serve as a legacy for everyone involved and feature prominently in the most significant book of all - our book of deeds.

Till the day we are #AllOnTheSamePage

Resource Distribution

Calculating the appropriate quantities of printed materials and fundraising materials continues to be one of the biggest technical challenges in running Charity Week - and this is only because we continue to prioritise efficiency. In the cases of UK regions, Qatar and Canada, i.e. countries that have previously participated in Charity Week, pennyboxes and buckets from previous years were re-used. The figures below are the quantities of resources that were required to deliver CW2015.

| | UK | | | | | | Canada | Qatar | Germany | USA |
|------------------|----------|--------|-------|------------------|-------|----------|--------|-------------------|---------|-----|
| | Midlands | London | South | Wales & The West | North | Scotland | | | | |
| Bucket | 224* | 489 | 96 | 122 | 226 | 215 | 40 | 30 | 20 | 120 |

Cakes? Old news.. A 'Bubble Tea' stall was organised at St Andrew's.

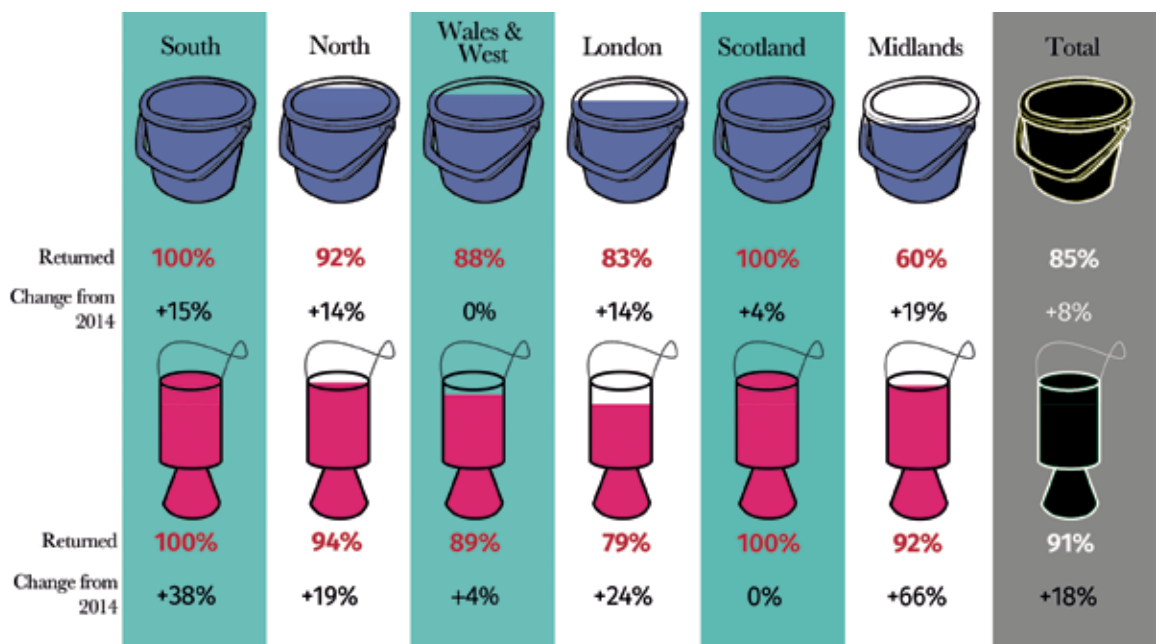

The money spent to deliver Charity Week is an amanah, entrusted to us to use with care and for the intended purpose. This is money that could have gone directly to the poor, but instead it has been invested into the campaign. It is up to us to spend it with care and ensure that the return is excellent.

In the UK, our policy of asking regions to track and return buckets and pennyboxes has proven to be an effective way to reduce costs. We hope to encourage a similar system in our other participating countries.

Training our Teams

28TH FEBRUARY 10AM-5PM

The Ted-style Talk titles included:

What if Apple ran Charity Week?

Islamic Relief & Charity Week: relationship status

Lifehacks for the busy Charity Weeker

The culture of Charity Week

Projects: Why what we do makes a difference

Having a team that is spread across an entire country (or several countries) makes it difficult to get that team spirit and excitement going. Many people can work together in Charity Week for an entire year and never meet in person.

The solution we came up in the UK was Assemble. Not only did this ambitious event address team bonding, but it included training to ensure consistency and constant improvement in our delivery of CW. Talks were delivered by experienced Charity Weekers. There were ice breakers as well as break out rooms for regions and departments, ensuring an enjoyable yet productive way to train every member of the Charity Week team.

The event ran to schedule, starting and finishing right on time.. it had to, otherwise the Scots would have missed their flights home!

Congratulations to every institution that took part. Although, we have never considered our grand total to be our measure of success, we celebrate it as a reflection of the number of people who have taken part, cooperated together and competed in good spirits. That's what makes the grand total truly worth celebrating!

Where the Money Goes

One of the unique benefits of being part of Charity Week is that every single volunteer gets to have a say in where all of the money goes. We organised Charity Week together, we raised the funds together, therefore it only makes sense to spend it together.

The Issues

- >3,600 newborns in Gaza need intensive care each year
- The NICU (Neonatal Intensive Care Unit) is NOT able to cope
- >75% of these sick newborns end up dying
- This is one reason why the infant mortality rate in Gaza is rising to more than 20 per 1000
- Also, studies indicate that almost 70% of Gazan children suffer from Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder

How have you changed things?

- 3,600 sick newborns a year given life saving treatment and care
- Neonatal Intensive Care Unit Monitors, 2 transport incubators, neonatal medications
- 140 doctors taught in 3 neonatal support courses per year
- 24 nurses given specialist training in NICU at Al-Maqqasad Hospital in Jerusalem
- Training local engineers to maintain specialist equipment
- More than 200 children given psychological support, sports therapy and tools to decrease stress & anxiety

The Issues

- Between 2-3 million Syrian children cannot go to school
- Up to 50% of the 5 million Syrian refugees are children
- The majority of refugee families have left everything behind
- They have no source of income and no way to protect themselves against the harsh winter
- Many of the refugee children have limited schooling thereby destroying their future as well as their present

How have you changed things?

For each refugee family:

- 2 blankets
- 2 pillows and 2 mattresses
- 1 stove
- 2 sets of childrens boots and clothes
- Priority given to unaccompanied children, special needs and households run by single mothers
- Children given uniforms, books, stationery and enrolled into local schools
- Classrooms rehabilitated

Duration: 2 years (Boat Clinic) 6 months (Education)

The Issues

- Severe floods along with ethnic and religious conflict has meant an entire generation of children do not have access to education
- Schools are in poor repair after floods and violence
- Many teachers and others have fled, leaving few skilled personnel to run a school
- There are only 3 medical doctors for 430,000 people in the coastal areas of Rakhine state
- This lack of medical care means that many vulnerable people are suffering & dying from treatable conditions
- Unfortunately, due to ongoing persecution, these communities are inaccessible except by boat

How have you changed things?

- 2 boats have been fitted out as boat clinics, containing a pathology lab, ultrasound machine and x-ray facilities and a fully stocked pharmacy with lifesaving drugs
- They have doctors, nurses and other health care professionals
- Giving priority to children and the disabled, they will visit more than 10,000 households every month to offer healthcare to some of the most persecuted people on the planet
- 25 schools will be given targeted assistance in training 160 teachers
- School management committees and Parent Teacher Associations will be set up
- 4000 school children will be given education materials and packages to help their learning

Delhi

Number of beneficiaries: 18,150 Duration: 3 years

The Issues

- 50% of the approximate 360 million children in India live in slums
- Most of them are forced into child labour
- Some into prostitution and drug trafficking
- They have little hygiene, are malnourished and frequently ill
- They are invisible

How have you changed things?

- A mobile health clinic visiting the slum children 4 times a week
- Shelter for 3000 homeless children and their mothers per year
- Income support for 50 mothers per year so they can look after their family
- The project aims to work with government, communities and families to provide help accessing shelter, healthcare and education

Annual Dinners

The Qatar co-national director moved to Texas. There she got in touch with the CW USA team. One of the team members turned out to be a long lost friend who used to carpool with her to school.

The USA CW team joined the Scots for their Annual Dinner... via live stream.

Starting the Next Chapter

Charity Week 2015 was an eventful year

From having two new countries come on board to seeing the maturing of the project in UK, Canada and Qatar - there were many reasons to be grateful. But possibly the best moment of all came right at the end with the International Dinner held in Manchester.

Unseasonably high winds meant that the beautiful marquee we had set up was unsafe to stay in. 45 minutes before start time, we made the decision to move everyone and everything to another venue across the city.

A catastrophic turn of events that would have broken many, became the highlight of the year as the entire Charity Week team rolled up their sleeves and worked like a well oiled machine to pack up what we spent hours laying out and move it to a new venue in time for our guests. That evening we proved that nothing is impossible if we stand united.

As preparation for CW2016 is already underway, we hope to learn from our mistakes and improve furthermore - but not forgetting all the stories we've lived along the way.

Cue mass hysteria! At 00:00 Fri Nov 13th the Charity Week UK team panicked as the fundraising pages went down. Posts were going out left, right & centre on social media. Messages were being sent out from the institutional to national levels. The fundraising pages were back less than 15 minutes later.
